Experienced Professionals Make Buying Decisions at Expo

"One of the things that I like best about exhibiting at the Frame Building Expo is how those people making the buying decisions usually have considerable 'hands-on' experience. In many cases, they started their careers on a building crew and truly appreciate quality over low cost.

That makes my job easier when they stop me in the middle of my sales pitch and tell me they spent 20 years or more swinging a hammer. They know full well the difference between a high-quality, American-made nail and a cheap, imported nail. That's when I stop talking and listen!"
